World Book's new look and a "Super" Homepage

Later this month, your World Book Online site will have a great new look and some important new features.

In addition, all subscribers who have not selected a specific World Book site as their homepage will see a new "super" homepage with links to the homepages of all the World Book sites to which they subscribe. This will help your students and patrons go quickly and efficiently to the content they need.

Your upgraded World Book site will continue to offer all the content and features users prefer, plus many more, including:

- Updated look and accessible design
- A collection of research tools that includes a timeline builder, individual research accounts, and an educator-created "how to do research" feature
- A Biography Center that offers easy access to information on important people
- Hundreds of new videos and thousands of new and updated pictures and illustrations
- News from PBS

The current ("classic") look will still be available from the homepage for several months after the redesign, but we think your users will find it very intuitive to start using the upgraded site right away.
